

COMMERCIAL CLUB MEETING TONIGHT IMPORTANT

Question of Entertaining New York Legislative Committee Latest Issue to Be Brought Up.

That the meeting of the Commercial Club tonight will be a very important one is the statement of Secretary T. J. Naylor today. Mr. Naylor said that the club would take up the question of entertaining the New York legislative committee which will be here Thursday evening and discuss it. He declined to make any statement regarding what form, if any, the entertainment would take.

Several prominent members of the club gave it as their opinion that some sort of entertainment would be held for the visitors, and that an effort to impress them with the importance and resources of the new state should be made. As Albuquerque will be the only point they visit in New Mexico, a special effort should be made, they said.

The club will also discuss the coming form of government for others in New Mexico. The discussion will be based on statements made by the city council's committee on the commission form, presented informally to the club. This committee has not yet reported to the council. It is understood that it has formulated a general plan of government which will apply to every city in the state.

The prospective improvement of the Alameda park will also be discussed. Anti-Tipping League.

Secretary T. J. Naylor of the club has received a letter from Frank G. Miller, secretary of the Manufacturer's association of Racine, relative to the establishment of an Anti-Tipping league for business houses. The objects of the league, which the club is asked to participate in, are the recognition of a chain of non-tipping hotels in the principal cities of the country, the establishment of such hotels where there are none, and the abolition of all tipping on sleeping cars and in its other usual haunts. The matter will be brought before the club tonight.

FIREMEN'S MEETING PLANS ARE NOW PROGRESSING

Soliciting Committee Makes Initial Round of Merchants Yesterday and Meets With Great Encouragement.

The joint committee from the Commercial club, city council, and lodge of Firemen, yesterday began its work of canvassing the city of Albuquerque for subscriptions to raise the fund necessary for securing the projected union meeting of railroad men held next May. The committee met with great encouragement.

"You may say for me," said Chairman Jay A. Hobbs this morning, "that we received a great deal of encouragement in our visits yesterday. I believe this meeting will be a go. The merchants are supporting it generously, and with only $2,500 to raise in order to secure the meeting, it seems almost a certainty that we will get it."

Several business men gave it as their opinion that such a meeting would do the merchants and other business men of the city a great deal of good. Heartily signed names assured for it from all quarters.

ALBUQUERQUE IS TO NOBLES OF SHRINE BE VISITED BY NEW YORKERS

Committee of State Legislature to Be in This City Eight Hours Thursday: Commercial Club Interested

A committee of the New York state legislature will spend eight hours in Albuquerque Thursday afternoon and evening. The Commercial Club will probably plan some sort of entertainment for them, which will give them a better idea of what New Mexico is like.

The committee is one appointed to investigate several matters in connection with the session to be opened by New York state at the Panama-Pacific exposition in San Francisco, and is on its way home after completing the work.

The party is traveling in a special Pullman, and is on its way to New Orleans before going back to New York. It will arrive here on No. 2, and will leave at midnight, a little more than eight hours later, on No. 8 for El Paso.

"THE BUTTERFLIES" A STANDARD COMEDY

Amateurs in Benefit on December 29 Have Unusual Opportunity in Clever Play.

One of the pretty scenes in "The Butterflies," the clever society comedy by Guy Carleton, that will be presented on the 29th of this month as a benefit performance, occurs in the second act when the love-lorn suitors are surprised by the objects of their affection. The girls appear upon a balcony and scatter rose leaves upon the men. "My how those roses smell!" remarks the Englishman, whose good nature is easily imposed upon at every turn.

It is characteristic of the characters in Carleton's dramas, even in his comedies, that they are always true to life. They are funny enough, but not overdrawn, and the things they do are interesting because they are just like the real people we know under similar circumstances. Taking into account the unique ability of Carleton among playwrights to create funny circumstances that might readily occur in real life, the effects he gets are unusually poignant.

In "The Butterflies," most of the characters are society folks—real people from real life, with little to do but seek new means of amusement, hence the appropriate name "The Butterflies." From his first introduction in the Palmer theater, New York, with John Drew, Maud Adams, Miss Olive May, Leslie Allen, and Arthur Byron, and several others, scarcely less prominent in the cast, the possibilities of the play have been appreciated by big companies everywhere, and the popularity of "The Butterflies" has been dimmed.

The play has been recently been opened to amateur performances, and in securing this play for the holiday benefit, the management has executed a coup which sounds well for the success of the production. "We expect to surpass the excellence of the 'Men from Home,'" is the remark of those who have been working upon the comedy. Not only are many of the same efforts to participate who made a success of the Tarrington play in August, but the system of coaching is the same and equally conscientious efforts are being made by the members of the cast.

Very pretty scene settings and a production of music are not to be overlooked as features which will contribute to the general effect. That several new tapes will be seen on the night of December 29 in the important roles may awaken the curiosity of players. That the company will be able to fulfill the most exacting requirements of the public is confidently anticipated, and the public has come to expect a professional standard.

The merchants are supporting it generously, and with only $2,500 to raise in order to secure the meeting, it seems almost a certainty that we will get it."

Several business men gave it as their opinion that such a meeting would do the merchants and other business men of the city a great deal of good. Heartily signed names assured for it from all quarters.

PETER TOBIN CALLED BY DEATH AT RIPE AGE

After a residence of more than 4 years of service in Albuquerque, and half again as long in the state, Peter Tobin succumbed to the grim reaper yesterday afternoon at St. Joseph's Seminary. Mr. Tobin had made his home since his retirement in St. Joseph's, and there he won the friendship of all who met him, just as he had done when for nearly a quarter of a century he headed a Santa Fe section gang.

Mr. Tobin leaves two brothers and several nephews in Ireland, his native home, but no relatives in this country.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning in the Immaculate Conception church. The Knights of Columbus will hold their customary services over the remains this evening in Strong Brothers' chapel. As many as will attend the funeral tomorrow morning.

Mr. Tobin was 75 years old.

VARSITY MUSICIANS TO RENDER PROGRAM

Little Effort Was Apparent in Stock Market to Push Sales Over Yesterday's Sharp Rise.

(By Evening Herald A. P. LEWIS WISE)

New York, Dec. 12.—Traders made little effort this morning to extend yesterday's sharp rise in stocks. There was an increase in outside buying but the professional operators took profits with the result that the market became dull and receded after the buying orders which had accumulated over night had been filled. A higher range of prices in random stimulated the market in the opening.

Operations for the long account were assisted also by regular money, cash loans opening at 1-1/4 per cent, as compared with 1-1/2 per cent at yesterday's opening. Business contracted steadily during the second hour.

Preliminary Plans Made Last Night for Fitting Exercises in Honor of 25 Years of Shrine Life.

At the annual meeting of Ballantyne temple, A. A. G. N. M. The anniversary falls in June, 1912, and the officials elected last night will make a special effort to see that it is fittingly commemorated.

Owing to the increase in the membership of the temple, an additional representative to the Imperial council was appointed, making four in all. This is the first time the local temple has been entitled to four representatives.

The members elected their officers for the coming year as follows: President, Paul Teitel; chief rabbi, C. N. ## TUBERCULOSIS IS THEME OF EXTRA EXERCISES

Students of Public Schools Hear Addresses on Prevention of Dread White Plague by Dr. Tolbert.

Special exercises were held in all the ward schools yesterday with the subject of anti-tuberculosis presentations as their theme. Addresses were delivered by Dr. R. B. Tolbert, pastor of the Congregational church, to which the students listened with great attention.

It is believed that the exercises will be of great benefit in the fight against this great destroyer.

Red Cross seals were talked of, and their proper passing upon letters made the subject of several minutes' discussion. The children were told just what the seals meant, and how their use helps the anti-tuberculosis crusade.
